GIST Techno Management Business Academy holds courses at the National University of Singapore for its 9th class of students

- GIST (President Kiseon Kim) Techno Management Business Academy (GT MBA, Managing Professor Sung-Gyoo Park) held the 'GIST-NUS Global CEO Leadership Program' at the National University of Singapore (NUS) for two days on June 26 and 27, 2019.
 - 34 students who are participating in the 9th GT MBA in 2019 attended the Singapore training program and discussed ways to actively cope with a rapidly changing global paradigm.
- On the first day, Professor Alex Capri, a senior fellow at NUS Business School, gave a lecture on "Asia's Digital Economy and Global Value Trends and Trade Environment in Asia." On the second day, lectures were held on Singapore as a success model for key issues affecting China's Belt and Road Initiative * policy and Asian business and technology environment.

* China's 'New Silk Road Strategy Initiative' refers to the land area linking China and Europe and the sea route connecting Southeast Asia, Europe and Africa.

- A student who participated in the program said, "In a rapidly changing business environment, lectures and discussions about global management strategies have helped us prepare preemptive measures for corporate management."
- GTMBA Managing Professor Sung-Gyoo Park said, "Through the curriculum offered by the GTMBA program, I hope that participating entrepreneurs in our region will have a better understanding of the Asian economic market and the success model of Singapore so that they can pave the way for further growth for their companies in the future."
- GTMBA opens and operates a top technology management course to serve as a hub of business leaders for business leaders to receive a systematic CEO education program. The 9th iteration of the course began this year in March and meets every Tuesday night at Oryong Hall for 25 weeks.
